Festivals and Celebrations

Festivals are the pinnacle of Duskaran recreation, uniting communities in shared joy and gratitude. The Wind Festival honors the vital role of wind through races, musical performances, and the crafting of wind chimes and kites. Aurora Nights, marked by bioluminescent displays and storytelling, celebrate the mysteries of the night side.

Resource-sharing festivals promote communal values, redistributing surplus goods and honoring contributions to the community’s welfare. Coming-of-age ceremonies challenge youth with endurance trials and skill demonstrations, integrating them into society with handcrafted symbols of their roles.
